Greenpeace reaction to First Ministers' climate meeting: Better is possible

3 March 2016 (Vancouver) – In response to today's news conference at the First Ministers' climate talks, Melina Laboucan-Massimo, a Climate and Energy campaigner with Greenpeace Canada said:

“Better truly is possible. The simultaneous development of a national climate plan, the strengthening of environmental laws and the pursuit of reconciliation with Indigenous peoples offer an unprecedented opportunity to build a better country for all. Pushing through new tar sands pipelines, however, will deepen the divisions, put Canada's global climate goals out of reach and will take us away from the just, low-carbon future our communities need to see.”
