

President Obama,

Climate change threatens every person, in every nation, and the world is looking to you to lead. For too long, politics have derailed action that would avert the catastrophe that scientists warn us we'll face without action. A rise in global average temperature of just 2° will bring about those impacts. We must act now.

The world has faced incredible challenges before, and we're ready to face this one. But we need leadership. I'm calling on you to personally make sure that the agreement that's reached will do what science says is necessary--and nothing less. I'm counting on you.

Name _____

Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Phone _____ Email _____

Interested in: Volunteering Emails Student network

*By providing your email address or telephone number on this form, Greenpeace may contact you. Your personal information will not be shared.

President Obama,

Climate change threatens every person, in every nation, and the world is looking to you to lead. For too long, politics have derailed action that would avert the catastrophe that scientists warn us we'll face without action. A rise in global average temperature of just 2° will bring about those impacts. We must act now.

The world has faced incredible challenges before, and we're ready to face this one. But we need leadership. I'm calling on you to personally make sure that the agreement that's reached will do what science says is necessary--and nothing less. I'm counting on you.

Name _____

Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Phone _____ Email _____

Interested in: Volunteering Emails Student network

*By providing your email address or telephone number on this form, Greenpeace may contact you. Your personal information will not be shared.

President Obama,

Climate change threatens every person, in every nation, and the world is looking to you to lead. For too long, politics have derailed action that would avert the catastrophe that scientists warn us we'll face without action. A rise in global average temperature of just 2° will bring about those impacts. We must act now.

The world has faced incredible challenges before, and we're ready to face this one. But we need leadership. I'm calling on you to personally make sure that the agreement that's reached will do what science says is necessary--and nothing less. I'm counting on you.

Name _____

Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Phone _____ Email _____

Interested in: Volunteering Emails Student network

*By providing your email address or telephone number on this form, Greenpeace may contact you. Your personal information will not be shared.

President Obama,

Climate change threatens every person, in every nation, and the world is looking to you to lead. For too long, politics have derailed action that would avert the catastrophe that scientists warn us we'll face without action. A rise in global average temperature of just 2° will bring about those impacts. We must act now.

The world has faced incredible challenges before, and we're ready to face this one. But we need leadership. I'm calling on you to personally make sure that the agreement that's reached will do what science says is necessary--and nothing less. I'm counting on you.

Name _____

Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Phone _____ Email _____

Interested in: Volunteering Emails Student network

*By providing your email address or telephone number on this form, Greenpeace may contact you. Your personal information will not be shared.